How we help

In2itive works with organisations that provide some form of training to their own customers' and user communities. We enable those organisations to sell, deliver, monitor, manage and audit their own training resources online, in a secure, fully managed learning environment.

Our hosted solutions ensure that there's no software for you to install, administer or to worry about in any way. These solutions, along with our approach to doing business leave you free to concentrate on your core business, whilst we take care of the enabling infrastructure and applications.

All of our solutions are implemented as your 'own brand' in accord with your preferences, ensuring that your online services appear to your customers' in the way that you choose.

Training Organisations

Bring your online plans into focus

"We have been in the online training environment for a number of years now, but what we really needed was a way of automatically tracking all of the training that is undertaken at the individual user level as well as being able to provide our key clients with the same capability. In2itive were able to provide just that. When you have one million users this solution is going to create some significant savings on resources, paper and staff time.

We had to make sure that the online training platform we chose was able to fit into the way that our courses are planned and delivered, not the other way round.

The most exciting aspect of In2itive's offering was the flexibility it afforded us. We can really create additional value for our key customers by providing them with online access, not only to the training course, but to current training information for their organisation. We can even customise a programme by loading up our customer's own training content to enable them to deliver it to their own employees or even customers"

Our partnership approach assures our clients that we will work hand in hand to ensure that not only do we provide a robust technical solution that includes full support and service level agreements, but also a commercially viable solution that meets the needs of your specific market(s) and customers.

In2itive is a technology partner for training providers and as such we have a range of proven software applications that are customised into solutions that are specific to each of our clients' individual requirements. These solutions include online training, learning and development and knowledge management, as well as solutions for the recruitment industry. These are In2itive's core products and our areas of online expertise.

Our customers and partners also have expertise and this is usually in their own specific niche, with their own specific 'formula' of training. In2itive do not 'author' training materials or courses, however, we do work with our customers to transform their expertise and resources into online solutions that are both commercially viable and technically proven. We operate on this basis because we believe that if each party is doing what it does best, then a 'best in class' service can be provided by combining those strengths.
